BE HPV AWARE

The number of reported cases of human papillomavirus (HPV) is rapidly increasing, and its links to oral cancer provide great cause for concern amongst the dental profession. Up to eight out of ten people will be infected by HPV during their lives, but many strains of the virus are not dangerous and will often go undetected. It is those associated with cancer that are most worrying, with some strains found in more than 30% of patients with oropharyngeal cancer.

Vigilance and careful attention to detail are imperative during opportunistic screening for oral cancer, and it is important to refresh and update your knowledge and skills regularly. The interactive oral cancer module designed by IDH and the Association of Dental Groups (ADG) is the ideal tool for this, helping to raise awareness and understanding of oral cancer. It is completely free to all healthcare professionals in the UK, and those who seek a CPD certificate need only pay £25 excluding VAT, £5 of which will be sent directly to the British Dental Health Foundation.

Make sure you are prepared for the fight against oral cancer: to find out more about the free oral cancer training available visit http://www.dental-groups.co.uk/mouth_cancer.php.

STRUCTURED ORTHODONTIC TRAINING FOR DENTISTS

The IAS Academy provides a unique guided pathway of lifetime learning for general dental practitioners, with a point of entry for every level of orthodontic experience.

Professor Ross Hobson, who will teach the advanced level, said: 'This is not a "We will fix your teeth in weeks" approach; our aim is proper assessment, diagnosis, treatment planning and appropriate treatment.'

Leading the way in anterior alignment orthodontics (AAO), Dr Tif Qureshi said: 'We have created a pathway of learning using the same protocols of arch evaluation that we teach with Inman Aligner – digital planning, printing and evaluation.'

'All the trainers are able to access every case from a digital vault – assessment will be mandatory at every level. Being qualified to provide the appliance will require a combination of education, support and clinical experience.'

The IAS Academy offers an outstanding level of teaching, enabling you to give your patients choice and stable results. For more information, visit www.iasortho.com, email info@iasortho.com or telephone 0845 366 5477.
