Dear Professor Adrian Harris

Manuscript title
Please give the full title of the manuscript you are submitting to the British Journal of Cancer.

Statement of justification and originality
Please state what makes your research novel, interesting and worth publication.

Abstract
Please insert an overview of your manuscript.

Note: This should include a brief outline of the introduction, methods, results and conclusion. State if there is any supplementary material and what it is.

Declaration
Please make a declaration regarding your work and research for this paper, addressing the following BJC requirements and detailing any variations.

- All named authors have read the manuscript and have agreed to submit the paper to BJC in its present form.
- The research has not been and will not be submitted simultaneously to another journal, in whole or in part.
- The paper reports previously unpublished work.
- All those named as authors have made a sufficient contribution to the work. (BJC does not restrict the number of authors contributing to a paper, providing these conditions are met).
- Authors must obtain all necessary consent from their employers or funding bodies.

Note: If the authorship of a paper is changed in any way after it has been reviewed, the Editor will require a letter, signed by all authors named on the original or on the revised submission, explicitly agreeing to the change. Authors should ensure that their name appears on the manuscript in the format that they wish to appear in print.
Conflicts of interest
Please declare any financial interest you may have related to the work described in the paper when it is first submitted. All authors should describe their interests and involvements that have a bearing on the intended paper.

These can be broadly divided into:

- Support for the work under consideration, or for other projects, either financial or in kind from any third parties, companies or organisations whose finances or reputation may be affected by the publication of the work.
- Any recent, existing or planned employment relationship or consultancy (whether paid or unpaid) the authors have with an organisation whose finances or reputation may be affected by the publication of the work.
- Any direct financial interest any of the authors or their spouses, parents or children have, (personal shareholdings, consultancies, patents or patent applications) whose value could be affected by the publication.

Authors, who have no such interests, should also make a declaration to that effect in respect of this work and its publication. Authors may make a joint declaration that they have no conflicts of interests.

Ethical considerations
Please confirm that you have observed appropriate ethical guidelines and legislation in conducting the study described in this paper and outline them briefly.

Note: Typescripts that contain the results of human and/or animal studies will be accepted for publication only if it is made clear that a high standard of ethics was applied in carrying out the investigations.

Papers reporting clinical studies should contain a statement that they have been carried out with the approval of an appropriate ethical committee, which must be identified. The paper should include a statement that informed consent was obtained from patients, where this is appropriate.

Clinical trials should be registered, preferably prospectively, and the registration number, the registry name, and access details should be included in the paper.

Papers disregarding the welfare of experimental animals will be rejected. Please state in your paper which Animal Welfare Guidelines or Code you have followed.

BJC is broadly supportive of initiatives to improve the quality of reporting of medical research such as REMARK, and PRISMA and encourages authors, where appropriate, to follow them and cite references to them in their papers.

Use of the English Language
Please describe any assistance you have received in the writing or editing of this manuscript from any persons who are not named as authors of the manuscript.

Note: Authors whose first language is not English are encouraged to consult a native English speaker working in a similar area for advice on the clear presentation of their manuscripts. Where this is not possible, they may wish to use a service such as that offered by Nature Publishing Group Language Editing, but please note that the use of NPG Language Editing will be at the author's own expense and in no way implies that the article will be selected for peer review or accepted by BJC (or any other journal). The decisions made by the editors of BJC are based solely on the quality and suitability of the work described in the manuscript. The Editors of BJC reserve the right to make literary corrections to manuscripts.
Communication with the media and embargo

Please describe any plans that you or your host institution, or your funder may have for publicising this paper.

Note: Manuscripts submitted to BJC should not be discussed with the media before they are accepted for publication. BJC may halt the consideration of a paper if this condition is not observed. Once a paper is accepted, authors are required to observe BJC’s embargo and to work with the BJC’s press team, notifying the BJC’s Main Editorial Office immediately of any press interest in their paper.

Licensing and Open Access

Please make a statement here confirming that, if their paper is accepted, all the authors will observe the terms of the Licence to Publish that they have signed or has been signed on their behalf and will seek the consent of the publishers acting for the owners of the journal, in any other circumstance.

Note: All authors publishing in BJC are offered the choice of an Open Access licence when their paper is accepted and all are permitted Green Compliancy, whereby they may upload their final accepted manuscript to their own or their host institution’s website six months after publication.

Yours Faithfully/Sincerely (edit as applicable)
