The need for materials to assist physicians in their analysis of potential job settings, especially from among the many varied practice types within the subspecialty of neonatal–perinatal medicine, became more and more evident as the committee worked to identify some of the areas and issues involving the “real world” which have eluded traditional medical curricula. In addition to the committee members, thanks are due to Doctors Tove Roven, Gerald Rakos, Bob Cicco and Philip Roth, all of whom helped by providing practice examples, with special thanks to Larry Cheldelin, MD, of Northwest Newborn Specialists, who contributed peer and self-evaluation materials in addition to a practice description. Robert J. Milligan, JD, of the Phoenix, AZ, law firm of Gallagher & Kennedy, and Jeff Gould, MD, Editor of the Perinatal Section’s Newsletter, are thanked for permitting us to include as Appendix D “Managed Care, the Law and Neonatology,” previously published in the Perinatal Section’s Newsletter. Individuals associated with Pediatrix Medical Group and Magella Medical Group provided invaluable suggestions and contributions. Thanks also for the encouragement provided by Av Fanaroff, MD, Chairperson of the Organization of Neonatal Training Program Directors, and by the Executive Committee of the Section on Perinatal Pediatrics. Lastly, special appreciation is extended to the Committee members who repeatedly revised or reviewed these materials in draft form.
