WOMEN IN MEDICINE: PERSONAL AND PROFESSIONAL CHOICES

Kidney International (KI) invites contributions for a special editorial series titled Women in medicine: personal and professional choices.

This timely series will include advice-themed articles from women physicians throughout the world, both nephrologists and other physicians who do work relevant to KI, providing advice relating to the experiences, challenges and rewards of being a woman working in the field of nephrology.

These short articles should be advice-oriented, focusing on one or more of the following areas:

- ⇒ Career choices
- ⇒ Job solicitation, selection, and negotiation
- ⇒ Development of leadership, mentoring, and management skills
- ⇒ The balance between personal and professional responsibilities, particularly the challenges of being both a mother and a physician

The article should be a maximum of 1500 words plus no more than 5 references. All submissions are subject to editorial review. Please state in your cover letter that you are responding to the call for papers on “Women in medicine: personal and professional choices.”

Submit your papers at: <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/ki>. Select “Editorial” as the article type when filling out the manuscript submission form.
