Supplementary Figure 1  The outline of the cluster in the callosal isthmus, found in the regression analysis with childhood practicing, superimposed on axial sections at $z = 24$, from the FA images of each individual pianist. The histograms below each image show the distribution of white matter density values (bin size 0.1), calculated in a VBM analysis, for all voxels within the cluster. The cluster is located within white matter in each individual participant.