

hæmoglobins, chlorophyll, and neodymium chloride.—A. Colson: Reduction of cryoscopy to the general laws of solubility.—A. Noyes: The counter e.m.f. of polarisation in sulphuric acid. The counter e.m.f. of a solution of sulphuric acid at first diminishes with the temperature, proportionally to the reciprocal of the absolute temperature. From 60° to 120° C. the fall is more rapid, and above 120° it scarcely varies at all. The change may be attributed to a difference in the mode of ionisation.—G. Langlois: A new synthesis of benzylidene-acetone. Cinnamene is condensed with acetyl chloride in presence of diethyl-aniline. The product was characterised as benzylidene-acetone by its oxidation products, formation of dibromide and semicarbazone, and by elementary analysis.—J. Guyot and L. J. Simon: The action of heat on the methylsulphates of the alkalis and alkaline earths. At 220°–280° C. sodium and potassium methylsulphates give methyl ether and a pyrosulphate, some methylsulphate being formed as a by-product. With barium and calcium methylsulphates methyl sulphate is the main product of the reaction, with minimal proportions of methyl ether.—P. Pelseneer: Production of hybrids in molluscs.—L. Roule: The first phases of embryonic development in Palemon serratus. Criticism of a recent communication to the Comptes rendus by M. E. Sollaud on the development of Leander-Palemon squilla.—C. Vanev and A. Allemand-Martin: The action of Hippospongia equina of the coasts of Tunis on the Posidonia.—H. Coutière: The morphology of the limb of the Crustacea.—E. Fernández-Galiano: The conjunctive tissue of the heart of the snail.—C. Gessard: An achromogenic variety of the pyocyanic bacillus. This new type gives pyocyanine on glycerine gelose-peptone, but gives no pigment when cultivated in aqueous peptone. M. Ménard and C. Delval: The action of the X-rays on fibro-myomas of the uterus in woman.—A. Robin: The hydration, soluble residue, and insoluble residue in cancer of the liver. A new theory on the genesis of cancer.
