Since the publication of the above paper, the authors have identified an error in Table 1. A revised version of the table is given below.

Same numbers of sorted B lymphocytes were activated with either anti-CD40 antibody (10 μg/ml) or anti-CD40 plus interleukin 4 (20 ng/ml). At 48 h after stimulation, cells were either treated with anti-CD95 antibody (+αCD95, 100 ng/ml, Jo2 Pharmigen) or staurosporine (+Staur, Sigma, 20 nM), or nontreated (–). The table shows percentages of cell death (sub-G0/G1 values) by propidium iodide staining of six independent experiments. ND, not done
