The Crocodile contact management system from Tekmar is an Internet based platform that permits the user to send one or many SMS messages to mobile phones from any on-line PC. Messages can be sent to individuals or groups depending on how the user structures the database.

Tekmar claims practitioners can incorporate Crocodile into their administration procedure to make patients aware of impending appointments. There is no set up cost or charges involved, users only pay for messages.

A curing light that talks to you in 5 languages

Coltene Whaledent is pleased to announce the launch of the new ColorTalk. The ColourTalk combines fast cure technology and innovative eye-catching design to produce a high power curing light that also comes with a voice synthesiser.

Coltene Whaledent claims it gives a light output of 800 mW/cm² to 1000+ mW/cm² in combination with a high efficiency fan and thermal protection.

The ColorTalk also has a "voice" that comes in 5 languages which indicates curing time - 10 seconds, 20 seconds as appropriate - and is available in 5 decorative colours to match your décor: blue, red, green, grey and purple.
