High speeds

Manufactured from extremely light pure titanium, the Sirona T1 handpieces are ergonomically designed with a superior finish and are ideal for all preparation procedures where high speeds are required. Optimum fibre optic light of 25,000 lux ensures maximum illumination when carrying out treatment. In addition, triple spray rings on the handpiece direct irrigation to the operative site to ensure the preparation is kept free from heat and debris.

The Sirona T1 handpieces will withstand repeated sterilisation up to 135°C and have an improved spray ring that is exchangeable with the handpiece. The Sirona Click & Go feature enables the T1 handpieces to be used on other leading brands of handpiece couplings.

Hygiene and safety

Kodak Dental Systems has designed ClinAsept packets for Kodak Insight Dental Films to improve hygiene and safety in the surgery for the benefit of both clinicians and patients. ClinAsept packets are designed to effectively minimise the risk of film cross-contamination during intraoral examinations and darkroom processing.

Presenting clear barriers to guard the film against the contaminants which may occur in oral fluids, the ClinAsept packets can be easily removed after exposure and prior to processing. The Insight dental film in ClinAsept packets is available in two sizes, 3.1 x 4.1 cm supplied in boxes of 100 single or double films, and 2.2 x 3.5 cm supplied in boxes of 75 single or double films. It is also available in Periapical Super Poly-Soft packets, Periapical, Bite Wing and Occlusal paper packets.

Help for needle phobic patients

The Wand from DPS is a new product that can help patients who have needle phobia.

Topical anaesthetic is first applied to freeze the gum and then a tiny needle is gently introduced through the already-numb tissue to anaesthetise the surrounding area. The controlled flow also eliminates the 'bee sting' effect, which is descriptive of the pain associated with a surge of fluids into tissue.

Because less penetration force is required, needle advancement is almost effortless while the flow rate of the anaesthetic is controlled by a microprocessor instead of the pressure of the clinician's thumb, making it more precise.

The Wand technique is already being taught in many dental schools across the UK as a less traumatic and less intimidating method of administering anaesthetic. The disposable handpiece may be used with all 1.8ml and 2.2ml cartridges.

FINANCE

Finance options

To help control the potentially high initial costs of equipping a new surgery, or refurbishing an established one, The Dental Directory can offer a number of finance options to suit individual needs.

Practices can choose to finance equipment over a period of two to five years - either lease hire or lease purchase. The Dental Directory offers finance through most reputable institutions including Siemens, Vector and Braemar. Dentists can choose from a comprehensive range of selected surgery equipment and defer the first payment for six months which allows extra time to establish the surgery and patient numbers and control substantial initial costs.

Making the move

Dental payment plan provider Denplan has launched a new website, www.readyforindependence.com, aimed at supporting dentists wishing to make the transition to independent private practice and highlighting the benefits of Denplan membership.

The website acts as a one-stop shop for dentists wishing to find out more about the numerous benefits already enjoyed by Denplan's 6,500 member dentists.

Products featured include the Denplan Essentials maintenance plan and Denplan Excel accreditation programme.

The new website demonstrates services and expertise and how these can make a valuable difference to practices such as the Denplan Conversion programme, professional development, quality programme, training and marketing support. The site also provides existing Denplan members with information on the range of products and services available to their practice.

Sickness and accident protection

The Dentists' Provident (DPS) offers sickness and accident protection exclusively to qualified dentists throughout the UK and the Irish Republic.

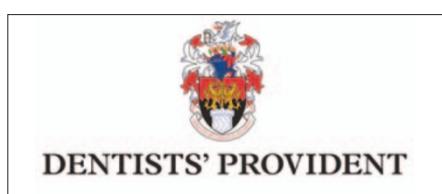

DPS understands the difficulties faced by dentists during illness or after an accident and offers its members insurance to meet their specific needs.

Membership combines protection against accident or illness with a lump sum available at retirement. A monthly payment to the DPS funds a policy designed to accommodate each member's individual needs. Features include an option for benefit payments to commence from the first day of incapacity or after 26 weeks, levelling or reducing of sickness benefits up to age 55, adaptability to changes in a member's circumstances and the same subscription rates apply for men and women.

For each year of membership members are also entitled to share in any profits made by the Society so from the moment you join the DPS a lump sum is building for your retirement, currently exempt from UK Income and Capital Gains Tax. Dentists' Provident is a mutual organisation with no shareholders so all profits are used for the benefit of members.

Interest free loans

Denplan Enhance enables dentists to offer patients interest-free loans of up to £25,000 for private dental treatment.

The product enables more patients to afford high value dentistry such as implants, cosmetic or orthodontic treatment by spreading the cost over monthly instalments. This can help widen treatment options, increase practice revenue and enable dentists to practise more specialist dentistry. Subject to credit-checks, loans can be offered to all patients, whether Denplan, NHS or private, and treatment can be booked in immediately.

An on-the-spot patient application process allows immediate confirmation of loans from £500 to £25,000, repayable by Direct Debit over six to 36 months (depending on the loan term). There are no set-up costs for dentists and patients are not obliged to pay a deposit. Dentists receive their payment up-front and loans are secured without financial risk to the practice.

New deal

Independent practice valuer FTA has formed collaboration with Dentsply which allows its clients to claim up to £5,000 cash discount on Dentsply products when instructing and receiving an FTA practice valuation.

Dentists can do this by instructing and receiving the practice valuation from an FTA representative. They can then accept 2 vouchers – one for the person who instructed the valuation and the other for the intended purchaser. (Please note: as your practice valuation is strictly confidential, FTA will need authorisation to contact Dentsply for you to benefit from the discount.)

Dentsply will contact you to discuss your requirements and its current offers and you can place your order with your dealer of choice and receive your 5% discount with a 'cash-back' cheque from Dentsply. You are also entitled to 5 flexi-change instruments, free of charge.
