

FREE LITERATURE

Cryopreservation. Cole-Parmer (Chicago, IL) has a new brochure highlighting its biological mini-freezer, cryogenic refrigerator, Locator™ sample inventory system, controlled-rate freezing elevator, and micro-cooling bath.

Write in 701 on Reader Service Card

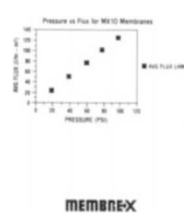

Chromatography. Alltech (Deerfield, IL) devotes a 700-page catalog to products for GC, HPLC, TLC, ion chromatography, biochromatography, and sample handling in its Catalog 200, which includes hundreds of chromatograms.

Write in 702 on Reader Service Card

ImmuNotes. Jackson ImmunoResearch Laboratories (West Grove, PA) offers a newsletter containing technical questions and answers, application notes, handbook-type articles, and meeting announcements.

Write in 703 on Reader Service Card

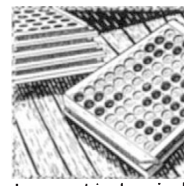

Biopurification Data. Experimental results obtained with Membrex's (Garfield, NJ) Benchmark® rotary purification system are detailed in a publication entitled "Increased Pressure/Flux Application Data Information."

Write in 704 on Reader Service Card

Nucleic Acid Analysis. Oncor's (Gaithersburg, MD) new price catalog lists over 200 products: molecular biology reagents, probes, instruments, and accessories. Categories include Southern- and Northern-blot hybridization systems, probes, primers, and genomic control DNAs.

Write in 705 on Reader Service Card

Immunobiochemical Services. BAb-Co's (Richmond, CA) custom antigen preparation, protein isolation, purification, and other antibody-generating procedures are outlined in a new brochure.

Write in 709 on Reader Service Card

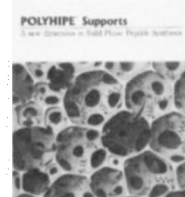

Fluid Clarification. Millipore (Bedford, MA) evaluates three of its fluid clarification filters in a technical brief, using the criteria of particle retention, dirt-holding capacity (throughput), extractables, and pressure drop.

Write in 706 on Reader Service Card

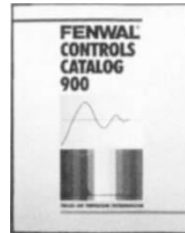

Electronic Measurement. Keithley Instruments (Cleveland, OH) has published a tutorial booklet describing uses and applications for its Source-Measure Units in simultaneously sourcing and measuring voltages and currents.

Write in 708 on Reader Service Card

Peptide Synthesis Supports. The Microporous Materials Department of National Starch and Chemical (Bridgewater, NJ) details the use of its Polyhipe™ porous synthetic polymer supports in an eight-page illustrated brochure.

Write in 711 on Reader Service Card

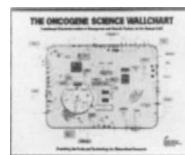

Process/Temperature Control. A 136-page catalog from Fenwal (Ashland, MA) contains product information, technical specifications, and tutorials involving its line of over 2,000 process and temperature controls, including sensors for local or remote sensing.

Write in 712 on Reader Service Card

Tris buffer. Angus Chemical (Northbrook, IL) describes its three grades of Tris Amino® (Tris hydroxymethyl aminomethane), an amine-functional alkaline buffer used in diagnostics, enzymology, and synthesis, in a new brochure.

Write in 707 on Reader Service Card

Oncogene Wall Chart. A full-color chart available from Oncogene Science (Manhasset, NY) describes the functional characterization of human-cell oncogenes and growth factors, and details signal transduction pathways and metabolic functions.

Write in 710 on Reader Service Card