The data deluge

Nat. Cell Biol. 14, 775 (2012)

In the Editorial ‘The data deluge’ (August 2012) published online and in print, the reported number of movies produced by the Mitocheck project was incorrect. The correct text is: “On a more modest scale, the 1000 Genomes Project, a data set of human genetic variation, has already generated about 200 terabytes of data, and MitoCheck, a systematic genome-wide analysis of about 21,000 human genes, generated about 190,000 movies representing a total of 24 terabytes.”

This was corrected online on 17th October 2012.
