

Smaller is better

Think size matters? When it comes to performing intraoral scans, it does.

Make sure you optimise patient comfort and achieve an accurate impression by choosing the CS 3600 intraoral scanner from Carestream Dental.

The scanner has a general tip which is ideal for normal scanning, an innovative side-orientated tip for hard to reach spaces, and a posterior tip for those with smaller mouths.

Add that to the fact that the tips are the smallest size on the market, and together these innovations mean that you can always treat every patient in absolute comfort.

Grey's Anatomy Dental Scrubs from US to Launch in UK

The Grey's Anatomy style dental uniforms are already hugely popular in the US. Manufactured by Barco One Uniforms, they are renowned for their quality, comfort and appearance.

Bringing these scrubs across the North Atlantic, Diamond Designs now has exclusive distributor rights to the Grey's Anatomy range of uniforms in the UK and Ireland.

As such, professionals have an even greater choice of uniforms that offer elegance and durability, with a wide variety of colours available to complement each practice's individual branding.

Diamond Designs has more than 30 years of experience in designing, manufacturing and supplying first-class uniforms for the healthcare and beauty industries. To find out how you could upgrade your dental team's uniforms with a US favourite, don't miss Diamond Designs at the British Dental Conference and Dentistry Show 2019 on stand P72.

Employment subscription service

Think it won't happen to you? In 2015/16 there were 144 discrimination cases where compensation was awarded; the average payout for sex discrimination was £85,622.

Employment law is fast changing and with so many different policies and regulations to keep up to date with, it's almost impossible to keep on top of everything whilst at the same time running a successful business. This is the reason FTA Law have launched their new Employment Subscription Service, Oracle, designed specifically for dental practices.

Oracle provides sound up-to-date advice for practice owners and managers, covering all matters of employment law and HR. By subscribing to the Oracle service, clients can be confident that the expert employment law team at FTA Law will support them and their business deal with any employment issues so they can remain focused on the day to day running of their business.

Clients using the Oracle service have unlimited access, via a telephone helpline, to a team of legal experts who don't just have a detailed knowledge of employment law, but also specialise in the many issues related to running a dental practice.

Not having access to the right support can be costly and worst-case scenario, could put your business at risk from claims in an Employment Tribunal. Alternatively, on a positive note, if you get things right, you are more likely to have a happy and efficient team.
