Perfect partnership

Philips has announced that its Zoom whitening business is delighted to launch a new partnership with IAS Laboratory.

The announcement sees IAS take control of the design and materials aspect of Philips' Zoom whitening home kit trays.

The dental professional takes patient impressions either digitally or manually, sends the results to the IAS laboratory which will make up a zoom tray, put that into a zoom kit and then post that back to the practice.

The benefit of this is there is now no need for stock holding for a practice; no stock management for the practice; no shelf life concerns over peroxide – because all whitening products have a shelf life; no risk of stock being lost; no stock management issues, you only order what you sell.

This way the patient will get the very best quality of products and trays that are tailor made to work with the bleaching system.

Refer to us

At EndoCare we are pleased to accept referrals for patients that have advanced endodontic needs or suffer from dental anxieties. When you refer patients to us you can rest assured that we will do everything in our power to ensure that they receive successful, painless treatment. We even help patients relax when they're in the chair.

Once we have returned the patient to your care, you can expect comprehensive information about the treatment they have received and suggested next steps.

New steriliser range set to disrupt the market

Yeson UK have launched a game-changing range of high-pressure steam sterilisation autoclaves at prices as yet unseen in the dental practice sector. With dentists under increasing pressure to acquire more patients and manage costs, the range is likely to generate a lot of interest.

The Yeson UK autoclave range performance matches that of the leading brands and delivers consistently reliable sterilisation at a much lower price point than the market has seen before, offering significant savings against other options. The entry level 8 litre machine retails at just £1,100.

All Yeson UK machines offer quiet Class B operation, 7 pre-set sterilisation programs, B&D Helix testing and a choice of printer or USB reporting.

A range of sizes from 8 litre to 22 litre capacity offers an option for any size of practice. Compliance meets all required CE and BS standards.
