

Three-day surgical sinus and bone grafting course

Comprehensive theoretical and practical training in advanced sinus and bone grafting surgery is available by taking part in the LCIAD and ICE Sinus and Bone Grafting Course.

Led by the renowned Professor Cemal Ucer and Dr Koray Feran, training is complemented by the expertise of two ENT surgeons specialising in Rhinology and the paranasal sinuses – Miss Sarah Little and Mr Abbad Toma.

The three-day intensive course covers everything you need to know in the field of reconstructive oral surgery and is supported by brands Straumann and Botiss.

It is held twice a year in two prestigious educational institutions with cutting-edge facilities – LCIAD Academy, St George's Hospital London and ICE Postgraduate Dental Institute and Hospital and the Manchester Medical School.

Described by the organisers as a benchmark course in maxillary sinus grafting, bone augmentation and oral reconstructive surgery, take your implant surgical skills to the next level with the LCIAD and ICE Sinus and Bone Grafting Course.

For more information or to book, visit www.bonegraftingcourse.co.uk, call 020 7323 3041 or email academy@lciad.co.uk.

Safety first

Needlestick injuries can result in the spread of bloodborne diseases such as hepatitis and HIV and they are also some of the most common injuries experienced by dental professionals in the practice, so why take the risk?

Make sure you put safety first by choosing the InSafe Sharps Safety System from Initial Medical, the expert in healthcare waste management.

A unique sharps and syringe disposal box, the system ensures that needles are never exposed apart from when actually administering the injection, removing the risk of needlestick injuries altogether. The system is completely compliant with UK legislation and can be dismantled to ensure effective sterilisation after use.

More information is available by visiting www.initial.co.uk/medical or calling 0870 850 4045.

Recruiting for stability

Dentists thinking of selling a practice in the next couple of years should consider their staffing structure now to put their business in the strongest possible position.

So says Dental Elite, the dental consultancy specialising in dental practice valuations and brokerage services, dental jobs and dental practice finance services.

Firstly, it is necessary to recruit the right people into the right positions and ensure there are no gaps in your practice.

It is just as important to offer pay rates comparable to your region's average, as this encourages staff retention and demonstrates sustainability to a buyer.

By planning ahead, you can make your business as appealing as possible when it goes to market.

For more information, a Dental Practice Health Check or recruitment support, contact Dental Elite by visiting www.dentalelite.co.uk, emailing info@dentalelite.co.uk or calling 01788 545 900.

Showcase your expertise

Dental professionals looking to distinguish themselves among competitors within the cosmetic dental field should consider joining the prestigious BACD (British Academy of Cosmetic Dentistry) Accreditation Programme, which provides the ideal platform to showcase expertise.

This challenging programme involves submitting five high quality clinical cases, which are judged by some of the country's top clinicians.

Candidates must then complete a Viva examination to successfully achieve BACD Accreditation – a unique award that can be presented to patients and peers, demonstrating that they are able to deliver exceptional clinical results.

Stand out from the competition by becoming a BACD Accredited dentist.

More information about the BACD is available by visiting <https://bacd.com/>.