

Book a dental study tour for 2021, risk-free

Book a new travel experience in 2021 on a dental study tour, with opportunities to discover new destinations and cultures as well as earning valuable CPD points. JBT dental study tours are led by specialists in their fields and include professional programmes offering real insight into dentistry through wide ranging visits, talks and opportunities to meet with your counterparts in other countries.

JBT's forthcoming dental tours include the combined Medical and Dental Study Tour to Iceland (15–24 May 2021) (pictured), a Dental Study Tour to China (17–27 May 2021) and a Dental Study Tour to Ecuador and the Galapagos Islands (3–15 September 2021). More details at www.jonbainestours.com.

To make it as easy as possible to look ahead, JBT is waiving its non-refundable deposit. You can now book on any 2021 tour with a fully refundable deposit. The deposit is fully refundable until the due date of the first instalment payment (three months before tour departure). At that time the tour will revert to normal booking terms and you have the option to commit to the tour. This means that you can book any 2021 tour, right now, with absolutely no financial risk.

Confirmed effectiveness in controlling viruses

IQAir Cleanroom 250 air purifier's effectiveness in controlling viruses has now been officially confirmed by the European accredited test institute Airmid Healthgroup in Ireland.

The test report confirms that the IQAir Cleanroom 250 high performance air cleaner achieved a 99.9% reduction of airborne viruses in less than ten minutes in a room of nearly 30 m³.

On the highest speed setting, the viral load was reduced from above 2790 ng/m³ to below the detectable measure of 0.156 ng/m³ – a 99.99% reduction.

The virus used in the test is the H1N1 viruses, which is identical in size range to SARS-CoV-2.

Using IQAir high-performance air purifiers to minimise viral pollution is particularly recommended after aerosol-generating treatments. The use of the IQAir Cleanroom 250 air purifier can protect both personnel and subsequent patients from severe viral exposure.
