Take part in a survey on maintaining dental implants

Majed Kahale, a final year student on the MSc Restorative Dental Practice at the Eastman Dental Institute, would like to invite BDJ readers to complete a questionnaire for the research study he is conducting on the maintenance of dental implants amongst general dentists based in the UK.

Majed explains: ‘As implant dentistry becomes a treatment modality which has mainstream clinical practice, there will be a greater responsibility of general dental practitioners to maintain these restorations and manage any complications.

‘The aim of this project is to understand the knowledge that general dental practitioners in the UK have in assessing an implant-retained restoration/prosthesis and offering their patients maintenance support.’

The study is questionnaire-based and participation will take 5–10 minutes of your time.

To complete the questionnaire, visit the following link which will take you to UCL Qualtrics: https://qualtrics.ucl.ac.uk/jfe/form/SV_cO3jQ7DzlbsPflw.

The results are all anonymous and your email address is collected in isolation from your responses. There are no known risks involved in the research.
