This Article contains an error.

In the Results section, subheading ‘Patient follow up’, the Authors omitted relevant information about classification of the cause of death for the deceased patient. Even though the death of patient happened after 13 months after the surgery, the Authors were not able to identify any other possible cause of death and therefore this death was classified as operation-related.

Therefore, in this section

“There was 1 case of operation-related mortality because of upper gastrointestinal haemorrhage (Table 5).”

should read:

“There was 1 case of death (Table 5). Since no other possible cause of death was identified, this death was classified as operation-related mortality because of upper gastrointestinal haemorrhage.”
